"New EP - "SIRENS"

To get going, I've decided my first release of 2014 will be a 3 track EP called "Sirens". Each track will have its own video, something I've never done before! I shot the videos in the 10 days leading up to Christmas. Two were directed by brilliant new director Jack Bowden and the other was made by Ferry Gouw, who's done loads of cool stuff. As ever, they were styled by the amazing Phoebe Arnold, who I've worked with since the very beginning, and the whole process was art directed by Studio Moross. I'm so happy to be working with them!

I hope this EP creates a lot of excitement, and will be worth the wait for you guys. Each video will be released with only a few weeks between them, so you'll get to hear all of the tracks on the EP by the end of April. It will then be available to download on iTunes :) As I said earlier, I have to rebuild interest, excitement and anticipation in advance of releasing my album, and that's the main reason for putting out this EP. I'm not expecting it to chart or anything, but I hope it gives me a solid platform to have hit songs in the future. To wish for anything more at this stage would be a bit unrealistic. However, fortune favours the brave and I think this campaign is really exciting, fun, and something quite different, so fingers crossed you guys like it!

I'll be releasing lots of bits and pieces as we go through the next few days and weeks - logo, artwork, cover shots, amazing remixes as well as the videos and original tracks themselves. The first song to be released is probably one of the strangest tracks I've ever worked on! It's called "Seashells" and I thought if I don't release this song now I will never release it!! It's very different for me, but it's just got something about it that I really love, hopefully, you guys will too."
